

ROOSEVELT SAYS THAT GARDNER'S ALL WRONG

The Colonel Wasn't to Blame for Stopping Harvester Trust Prosecution.

ENDED COAL STRIKE ALONE

At Least, He Says, He'd Have Got All the Blame for a Failure.

Fitting through town yesterday Col. Roosevelt found time to leave at the Roosevelt headquarters in the Metropolitan tower an answer to Congressman Gardner of Massachusetts, who has been pestering the colonel to meet him in debate and who has accused Mr. Roosevelt, among other things, of giving the public a false impression that Senator Lorimer had President Taft's assistance and support, of treating Senator Crane of Massachusetts in an unfriendly way and of stopping the prosecution of the harvester trust.

In his reply Col. Roosevelt denies that he ever charged that Senator Lorimer had President Taft's support, and quotes from a telegram to Mr. Gardner in which he said that "Mr. Lorimer's name was linked with Mr. Taft's by Lorimer himself," and that neither Mr. Gardner nor any other supporter of Mr. Taft ever endeavored to break the link until the result in Illinois showed that the association was no longer profitable to Mr. Taft. He adds that if it is true, as Gardner said, that President Taft has always opposed Lorimer "this opposition was so feeble that Mr. Lorimer never found it out and the only Taft delegates from Illinois to-day are those two whom Mr. Lorimer carried in his pocket."

The colonel also says that "every Republican vote for Lorimer in the Senate was given by a supporter of Mr. Taft" and that "Mr. Taft's Massachusetts manager, Senator Crane, voted for Mr. Lorimer."

Col. Roosevelt says that "in the same way Mr. Taft leaned on Mr. Penrose until it was made clear that the people of Pennsylvania were equally opposed to both Mr. Taft and Mr. Penrose; and now his managers are trying to disown Mr. Penrose." He adds that the Bradley machine in Kentucky and the Keeling machine in Indiana stand on an exact par with the Penrose and Lorimer machines; and that "evidently the Taft managers condemn rascality only when it is unsuccessful."

Mr. Gardner has accused Col. Roosevelt of forgetting in his attack on Senator Crane that he owed the senator "the most notable act of his career, the settlement of the great coal strike." Concerning this Col. Roosevelt says that he was urged by Senator Crane, then Governor of Massachusetts, and both Low, then Mayor of New York, to settle the strike, and that he was helped by Senator Root, Robert Bacon, Mr. Knox, then Attorney-General, and others, and that their help was greater than Mr. Crane's, but that "the action was my own, and if I had failed it would have been by my own failure, and in that case no one would have volunteered to divide the responsibility with me."

The colonel says that he did not suppress the reports of Commissioner of Corporations Herbert Knox Smith with regard to the harvester trust and that he could not have done so "except by conspiracy with successive Attorneys-General, one of whom was Mr. Knox, the present Secretary of State. He invites Mr. Knox and Mr. Stimson, formerly United States Attorney for New York, to answer for themselves whether they made exceptions for favorites in their prosecutions."

He includes in this statement telegrams from ex-Attorney-General Bonaparte and Herbert Knox Smith stating that Col. Roosevelt never asked to have reports suppressed "about the harvester trust or anything else," and adds that as it happened, the decision as to the course to follow in relation to the harvester trust was made after a full cabinet discussion and with the agreement of every member of the cabinet, which at that time included Mr. Taft himself.

In conclusion Col. Roosevelt refers to a resolution introduced by Mr. Gardner calling for the names of the contributors to the Smithsonian expedition to Africa, of which the colonel was the head. The colonel refers to Mr. Gardner, as he has done to the contributors of the expedition, as "our game trails," in which credit is given to Andrew Carnegie, Oscar Straus and Leigh Hunt for making possible the collection and forwarding of the expedition.

He says that he paid all of his own expenses and those of his son, Kermit, and gave his own labor as a hunter in the forest for eleven years of the trip, which could not have been made if it had not been for the courtesy shown me by the representatives of the foreign governments because of the fact that I was an ex-President. In other words, the national Government benefited enormously by the gift that I made, and I paid many thousands of dollars for the privilege of making this gift. Messrs. Carnegie, Straus, Hunt and the other subscribers by their subscriptions rendered it possible for the gift to be made. No other Government in the world has ever had from any one trip as valuable a series of natural history specimens as we gave as the result of our expedition. As for introducing a resolution in Congress to thank the nation for the donors, Mr. Gardner might as well introduce a resolution to know what were the names of the men with whom I have dined during the last ten years or so, or the names of the guests of Sagamore Hill.

IMPRESSIVE SERVICE HELD AT OLD TRINITY

St. George's Society's Holiday Turned Into an Hour of Mourning.

One of the most impressive services held in Trinity Church in recent years was the memorial service at noon yesterday for the passengers and members of the crew who lost their lives on the Titanic. Long before the noon hour the seats were all filled and when the doors were closed the standing room was also occupied. The service had been arranged by St. George's Society, and about 300 of the 600 members of the society and their families attended.

The annual dinner of the society is always held on St. George's Day, April 23, and it had been planned to give the 12th annual dinner of the society at the Waldorf-Astoria last night, with Lord Eustace Percy, secretary of the British Embassy at Washington, representing Ambassador Bryce, and Mayor Gaynor as the chief speakers. The presidents of all the other American and British patriotic societies were to have been present.

As soon as it was certain that the Titanic had been lost the president of St. George's Society, Henry W. J. Bucknall, conferred with the members of the dinner committee and it was decided not only to abandon the dinner and cause the first break in the long succession of annual affairs, but to hold a memorial service instead. The Rev. Dr. W. T. Manning, rector of Trinity, was willing to cooperate, and yesterday's service was arranged.

Invitations were sent to all the members of the society, with the announcement that seats would be reserved until 11:30 o'clock, after which the remaining seats would be free to all who desired to attend. At that hour the seats were more than half filled, and the crush outside the church was such that the seats open to the public were quickly occupied in the pews were representatives of the White Star and Cunard lines, to which invitations had been sent, and the officers of the various patriotic societies were also present.

In the pews reserved for the representatives of the British Government were Lord Percy, secretary of the embassy, who is the son of the Duke of Northumberland; Courtenay, formerly United States Attorney for New York; John J. Broderick, the consul, and all the members of the consular staff. Mayor Gaynor was expected but could not attend.

The service was decorated in a manner befitting the occasion. In the chancel were a number of mammoth bouquets of white roses, while the pulpit was heavily draped in mourning over the American and British flags.

As the Trinity clock boomed the hour of noon the strains of Beethoven's "Funeral March" played by M. E. Schwarz, the assistant organist, were heard. Then in silence the procession marched in this order: Sexton of Trinity Church, sextons of the parish, crucifer, crucifer, the Rev. Dr. David G. Wylie and Rev. Dr. George Alexander, chaplains of the St. George's Society; the Rev. Dr. Frederick Courtney, chaplain of St. George's Society; the curates of Trinity parish, the Rev. Dr. Starr and the Rev. Dr. Lowndes, visiting clergy; acolytes, the Rev. Dr. Manning, rector of Trinity; crucifer, and acolytes.

The opening sentences of the first psalm from the burial office were read by the Rev. Dr. Courtney, chaplain of St. George's Society and former Bishop of Nova Scotia; the Rev. W. Montagu Geer, vicar of St. Paul's chapel, read the lesson from I Corinthians, xv, 20, which was followed by the anthem, "Blest are the departed," by Spohr. The service of prayer was read by the Rev. Dr. John Mockridge, vicar of Trinity church.

Then followed the "Dead March" from "Riel," played by Dr. Victor Bauer, organist of Trinity. The Rev. Dr. Manning read the closing prayers, after which "Nearer, My God, to Thee" was sung as the recessional hymn. Mr. Schwarz played the "Funeral March" by Chopin as the closing voluntary.

The solemnity of the service deeply affected those who attended and the eyes of nearly all in attendance showed traces of weeping as they walked reluctantly from the church at the close of the service.

Next to St. George's Society, the Southern Society of New York had the largest representation at the service. Among those who attended were Robert Adamson, George Gordon, Battle, William Harmon Black, Joseph F. Daly, the Rev. Dr. St. Clair Hester, the chaplain; William G. McAdoo, Walter L. McCorkle, the president; Dr. W. M. Polk, Augustus Van Wyck and Dr. John A. Weyth.

AT ST. PATRICK'S.

Requiem for Dr. O'Loughlin, Titanic's Surgeon—Other Services.

A solemn requiem mass was celebrated yesterday morning at St. Patrick's Cathedral for Dr. William Francis Norman O'Loughlin, senior surgeon of the White Star Line, who went down on the Titanic. Nearly 1,000 persons, among them many physicians who had known Dr. O'Loughlin intimately, attended the service. Father Martin was celebrant and with him at the altar were the Rev. Dr. Sinnott, dean, the Rev. Father McQuade, sub-dean, and the Rev. John J. Byrne, master of ceremonies. Fifty boys of the sanctuary choir sang the mass. At the end of the service Father Martin gave absolution to the soul of the deceased.

There were no flowers anywhere in the Cathedral and the black robes of the priests and the sombre hangings of the altar added to the solemnity of the service.

There will be a service in Grace Church at noon to-day in memory of the victims in the wreck of the Titanic. The bodies will be buried from 12 to 12:15 o'clock, when Chopin's "Funeral March" will be played upon the organ. At 12:30 the service will begin, the full choir singing the requiem. The service will be held by the rector, the Rev. Dr. Charles Lewis Slatery.

BRYAN SNUBS UNDERWOOD.

House Leader Not on His Fighting List—Fighting Guffy.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—William J. Bryan spent the day at the Capitol in conference with Democratic leaders. He called on Senator Kern of Indiana and Speaker Clark but failed to pay his respects to Representative Underwood.

Mr. Bryan also talked with Pennsylvania Democrats who are opposed to the leadership of James Guffy, and gave assurances that he would assist in the fight against Guffy.

Mr. Bryan had a long talk with Representative Rucker of Missouri, chairman of the House committee that has jurisdiction over the resolution providing for the direct election of Senators and over the Henry bill requiring publicity of pre-convention contributions and expenditures. Mr. Bryan expressed the hope that an agreement would be reached on both measures at this session.

IOWA VERY CLOSE.

Neither Taft nor Cummins Sure of Delegates at Large.

CEDAR RAPIDS, April 23.—The Republican State convention will convene tomorrow. John T. Adams, manager for Taft, claims control by at least 80, John Brier, manager for Cummins, says that enough uncommitted delegates will come into the hall for Cummins to give him the delegation.

It will take a roll call of counties to determine the result.

Should Cummins get the four delegates at large Taft will still have 12 of Iowa's 26 votes in the national convention.

Another W. Va. County for Roosevelt.

WHEELING, W. Va., April 23.—Roosevelt to-day carried Ohio county (city of Wheeling) by a small majority. He received 38 of the 49 delegates. One district, entitled to seven delegates, will be contested by the Taft men.

Michigan Gives Taft Two More.

Detroit, Mich., April 23.—The First Congress district Republican convention to-day sent Judge W. L. Carpenter and John S. Haddock to the national convention instructed to vote for Taft.

TIE-UP ON THE ELEVATED.

Breakdown in East Side Power House Made Many Walk.

A breakdown in the power house of the Second and Third avenue elevated railroads at Seventy-fourth street and East River at 7:05 o'clock last night tied up the two roads and left them in darkness until 7:34 o'clock. Passengers trained on getting out of the stalled trains and walking to the nearest station platforms so as to get to trolley cars. Guards in charge of the elevated tried to prevent them. In most cases the passengers went out and forced the guards aside.

The street was crowded with a bridge over the Harlem River. Its passengers pushed by the guards and walked back to the 129th street station and there got surface cars. Supt. Smith said last night that he had been in communication with the power house but had been unable to learn the cause of the tieup.

No Money to End Grade Crossings.

Chairman Wilcox of the Public Service Commission in a statement made yesterday deploring the veto by Gov. Dix of the appropriation in the supply bill of $350,000 for the elimination of grade crossings, says that under the law little or nothing can be done now by the commission. The money now on hand for that purpose is planned for other work. He says, and so the commission's plan to order at once the elimination of dangerous crossings on the various branches of the Long Island Railroad and on the Staten Island Railroad can not be carried into effect.

Negro Becomes Asst. U. S. Attorney.

Boston, April 23.—William L. Matthews, a negro and former shortstop on the Harvard team and a football player, was sworn in to-day as Assistant United States District Attorney. Matthews went to the Federal Building with William H. Lewis, a former Harvard football player, who is now an Assistant United States Attorney-General.

WARPATH LEADS TO MASSACHUSETTS

Roosevelt Expects a Bomb From the President, and Is Ready for It.

QUOTING MR. SNODGRASS

The Colonel's Friends Say He Has Declared "I Am About to Begin."

OYSTER BAY, L. I., April 23.—Col. Roosevelt stated this afternoon from his Western and Southern trip. It was not two minutes after his train arrived at the Pennsylvania Station in New York before he had seated himself in the waiting room and was dictating a reply to the fighting statement of Representative Gardner of Massachusetts charging the colonel, among other things, with having suppressed the harvester trust prosecution and the reports of Herbert Knox Smith, thereby shielding the steel trust.

A crowd, true to the Rooseveltian similes of the "ring," formed a circle about him and watched him get busy on his correspondence. An old lady slid up in front of the colonel and poked her way directly over a letter he was reading. After that the station officials came to the rescue and put at the colonel's disposal a private office, where he finished his statement replying to Gardner and gave it to George Henry Payne, the chief literary secretary, or something like that, of the Roosevelt department of New York.

There's some fight coming off in Massachusetts at the end of this week if the President in his speeches there opens up the Roosevelt letters to him that the Taft headquarters in Washington gave notice yesterday that he would. So far only dull rumblings have been heard, but in his Western speeches the colonel has been laying the foundations for specific replies, evidently having got wind of some of the things about to come from the Taft side during the President's Massachusetts trip.

Friends of the colonel say, "Let the bomb come on," and tell this story about him:

"About that bomb," said the colonel, mustn't, 'if any of you are Pickwickians you may remember Mr. Snodgrass. And then,' said Mr. Snodgrass, taking off his coat, 'I am about to begin.'" The colonel smiled and disappeared.

"My answer to Congressman Campbell is contained in my Gardner statement," said the colonel to-day. "I will not say anything about the letters it is reported from Washington that Mr. Taft will read, until they are read and I know what they are."

Mr. Roosevelt in his Western speeches had already indicated what lines his replies would follow, without referring to the charge—which it is said is based on one letter—that the colonel advised President Taft to tie up Cannon and other standard leaders. The colonel said in one of his early Nebraska speeches last week:

"I advised Mr. Taft to see these men and confer with them, just as I had done when I was President, and to try to get along with them. When I was President I saw them and conferred with them, but I did not allow them to become my masters."

Regarding the Canadian reciprocity measure of President Taft, which it is said by the Taft men in Washington the colonel approved of in a letter to the President congratulating him on his flight, the colonel told the Nebraska farmers that he had not approved of it, but that after careful study he had become absolutely opposed to it and would never stand for such a measure if he became President again.

"I am in favor of reciprocity, but not the reciprocity of Mr. Taft," said the colonel to-day.

The colonel's trip to Massachusetts on Friday, following President Taft in Worcester and Boston on Wednesday and Thursday, includes Worcester on Friday night and Boston on Saturday night, with Fall River and New Bedford on Saturday afternoon and Lawrence and Pittsfield on Monday. The remaining Roosevelt trips will be in Maryland before the open primary on May 6, in New Jersey before the open primary on May 28 and in Ohio before the primaries, early in June.

The Roosevelt managers say that if the colonel gets half the Massachusetts delegation or even a third his nomination is absolutely assured. If he gets less, they say, he is still in the lead for the nomination, though he will have to fight hard for it.

TAFT GOING TO NEW ENGLAND.

President Will Leave Washington To-day to Make Speeches.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—President Taft will leave Washington to-morrow afternoon for a four day trip to New England and New York. He will return to Washington next Sunday.

The President will spend to-morrow night at Henry W. Taft's house in New York and will leave early Thursday for Springfield, Palmer, Worcester, South

Framingham and Boston, where he will deliver speeches.

He will leave Boston late Thursday night and arrive in New York early Friday morning to attend the funeral of Gen. Grant. In the afternoon he will go to Newark, where he will dine with the Taft Club of Essex county. At night he will speak at the army in Newark. He will be the guest of Clarence H. Kelsey on Friday night.

On Saturday Mr. Taft will enjoy a round of golf at the Country Club if the weather permits. In the evening he will go to Philadelphia, where he will make a speech before the Union League Club.
